LIKE A DUCK TO WATER

The girls throw lots over what they should do after school this afternoon . . .

Oh, not the bath house! I wanted to go shopping . . .

Wohoo! I won! I get to decide where to go!

Oh, come on! We get to be in the WATER! It's gonna be so much fun!

yeah, and we just had gym class.

Sigh! I guess this means we have to change again?

But hey, Irma! Aren't you forgetting something? Do you remember what my suggeston was?

Uhm, yeah . . . to go shopping, right?

Yeah, and we were to shop for SWIM WEAR! You said your old ones were too small!

OH, NO! I don't have any swim wear!

Some-one liked the swim wear shop a lot . . .

First, I won the lottery, then there was a sale at the swim wear shop! What a great day! And what a great pool, too, for that matter!

But, why are they standing there on the edge when they could be here in the water?

Isn't it great, Irma . . .

. . . but three hours in the bath is really more than enough!

I can see you love it, but I can't swim any more, Irma. But you're really cute in your new bathing hat!

Yeah, it's super cute! But there's one thing I don't get, Irma. Sure, there was a sale, but isn't TWO bathing rings a bit too much?

It was a mistake to bring WE though, since water is something he's not very fond of . . .
